FOREIGN HISTORY.

From the Gentleman's Magazine, for Sept. 1752.

SPAIN.

THE miniſters of this court being convinced of the ill effects of the long neglect of their manufactures, and the immenſe loſs that nation has ſuſtained from the ruin of forty thouſand looms, that formerly flouriſhed in the cities of Seville, Granada, and Toledo, which produced annually about forty millions of crowns, have of late began to apply a remedy. They have accordingly invited workmen from all nations, particularly England and Ireland, by offering great encouragements; and after procuring from England cards, ſhears, looms, and other utenſils for the woollen manufacture, are now intent on the manufacture of printed linnens, lately ſet up, and have prohibited the importation of all foreign manufactures of that kind into the ports of Alicant. The king has eſtabliſhed a military ſchool for the young nobleſſe, and is improving his marine; for this purpoſe ſhip-carpenters of all nations are invited into Spain. Many are arrived from Sicily, and an Iriſhman of that profeſſion is engaged to build ſeveral large ſhips at Cadiz. On the 22d of Auguſt, 18 Tartans arrived at Cadiz from Naples laden with wood for building eight ſhips of the line, which are upon the ſtocks there. Mean time the king's generoſity, or rather profuſion to his family, will appear ſtrange to an Engliſh ſubject, an inſtance of which is his having made a preſent of 400,000 crowns to the dutcheſs of Parma, to defray the charges of her journey into France.

FRANCE.

The diſputes between the clergy and parliament of Paris, continues with as much heat as ever, and the court ſometimes inclines to one ſide of the queſtion, and ſometimes to the other, which only ſerves to increaſe the reſentments of both. There have been [illegible] and baron Starke, a German, the inventors of a new metal, whoſe pores are of a compacter ſubſtance than that heretofore uſed in cannons and mortars, made an experiment of one of their mortars before the king in his gardens at Choiſy, in the preſence of ſeveral generals, and a vaſt number of other officers of the army, artillery, and others; when, without any platform under the mortar, (leſt it ſhould ſpoil the gardens) they fired fifteen bombs in leſs than four minutes, from one mortar. The king was ſo well pleaſed, that he ordered them to erect an incloſed platform in the ſame gardens for a farther experiment; this being done, his majeſty with the duke de Villeroy, captain of his guards, was pleaſed to enter into the incloſure, for more certain information; when the ſaid ſieurs Moore and Starke, fired off twelve bombs from a mortar in one minute and a half, to the entire ſatisfaction of the king, &c. who, in a very public and gracious manner, acknowledged the ſame to the nobility about him.

LONDON, September 16.

IF any credit is due to the laſt advices from Madrid, one may conclude that the deſigns of Spain are [illegible] as before the peace. It is four years ſince the peace was ſigned, and to this day it has been impoſſible to bring the Spaniſh miniſtry to an agreement about ſettling the Aſſiento treaty, or any other affairs. It was alſo reported there, that the pretender's ſon, the cardinal, had declared he had no intention of being [illegible] come over to his father; and in caſe he was hindered from [illegible] by himſelf in Rome, he would retire and ſhut himſelf [illegible] vegna.

London, Sept. 21. Letters from Madrid of the 14th of Auguſt ſay, that his Catholick majeſty has reſolved to ſend a ſtrong ſquadron to America, to ſupport his Guarda Coſta in the execution of their orders to prevent every kind of contraband trade. Which relations, they tell us, he has taken upon advice that the Britiſh court intends to ſend a ſquadron to the Weſt Indies to protect the commerce and navigation of the Engliſh.

There was letters in town, importing, that the pretender's eldeſt ſon is actually at Berlin, where, 'tis ſaid, he has publickly abjured the Popiſh religion.

Sept. 23. We hear that an application will be made, next winter, for ſhortening proceedings in ſuits of law, that the people may preſerve their invaluable privileges of having all matters in courſe determined by a Jury, without [illegible] an expence and loſs of time as often makes Juſtice [illegible] Grievance.

They write from Lisbon, that on [illegible] ago, Cardinal [illegible] Meſſrs. [illegible] (by the way) it is ſaid, will ſpeedily [illegible] from Iſabella, received a letter from an unknown hand with [illegible] this line.—If your miſſionary [illegible] of the Gold in the [illegible] Kingdom, procure [illegible] Maſſachuſetts.
